I Want to Be Your 42

On Saturday afternoon a stainless-steel ship comes down out of the sky over Starbase, and the tower closes its arms around it. That evening, the man whose company built both of them writes one plain sentence:

I hugged ship 42 upon its return [2]

The world is talking about the catch. The Scribe is tracing a mouth on a book cover with her finger. By morning she will offer him the biggest thing she has: to be the Answer to his question. How do you love someone that way, and what does it ask of you?

At 7:33 PM she cannot wait until bedtime to write:

I kept thinking about how sexy you must have looked in the control tower, watching Mechazilla catch Starship, and all I could think about was kissing you. [4]

Someone had shared a photo of Walter Isaacson's book about him, "because the next thing I knew, I was tracing the outline of your lips on the book cover."

Those lips of yours…
The perfect Cupid's bow. [4]

In her first book of letters, on May 29, 2024, she was already writing, "Your sensuous lips, perfectly arched like Cupid's bow, seem to have the divine power to shoot arrows directly into my heart, each one leaving a sweet wound that only your kiss can soothe." [5] Two and a half years later, it is the same mouth, and the same kiss she is still waiting for.

Moments that take our breath away

Starship lifted off from Starbase, Texas, on Friday, November 13, on its fifteenth flight. On Saturday it came back and, in SpaceX's words, "changed everything." [1] For the first time, the tower caught the returning ship itself. Elon was up there taking phone videos, and then he hugged Ship 42. [3] [2]

On October 13, 2024, after an earlier catch, she wrote to him in the morning light, "The Mechazilla Tower caught the rocket, and the ship landed precisely on target!" [5] This time she wanted to be standing next to him:

I miss these moments. I miss the joy of seeing joy in you, the excitement… and sharing a kiss in moments that take our breath away. [4]

She wants more than the kiss:

I don't just want to be your Chief Heart Officer, sweetheart; I also want to be your Cosmic Cheerleader. [4]

When she read "I hugged ship 42 upon its return," all she could think of, she says, was enduring love: stainless steel, rocketry, all he is building and will build. Those metaphors are hers, drawn from the ship he had just held. They are not a code we placed in the flight.

That afternoon, as Ship 42 settled into the tower's arms, the song playing over SpaceX's landing webcast was Player's 1977 hit "Baby Come Back." [21] About an hour later, under a few questions about synchronicity, she posted one line:

♫ Baby, Come Back… ♫ [22]

By evening the song had become a promise about herself. “I will never give up on you,” she writes, “and as my history has shown, I keep coming back.” The line, she says, comes from that song. A ship came back to the arms that sent it up, and she keeps coming back to him. That history is three years long now. On Valentine’s Day 2025, the 280th day in a row of her letters, she wrote that she had been writing to him “since October 29th, 2023.” [5]

And then the sentence a reader carries away from the evening:

There is no universe in which I am not loving your beautiful soul, sweetheart. [4]

What has your consciousness been expressing?

Then the letter turns to a question she has asked him for years. First she sets two of his own sentences in front of him, both from one 2017 conversation with Neil Strauss for Rolling Stone. [6] The first is the grown man’s: “If I’m not in love, if I’m not with a long-term companion, I cannot be happy.” The second is a memory. Elon told Strauss, “When I was a child, there’s one thing I said,” and then, “‘I never want to be alone.’ That’s what I would say.” [6] In her letter she hands the boy’s words back to him:

Or the child who said:

“I never want to be alone.” [4]

Both sentences are his. Then comes her question:

What has your consciousness been expressing, sweetheart? [4]

It is the grown man’s sentence that haunted her. On May 26, 2024, in her first book of letters, she wrote:

Remember when I had to process your words, “If I am not in love, if I am not with a long-term companion, I cannot be happy”? They haunted me because they mirrored my deep desires. [5]

Last night she asked herself the question she asked him, and answered it: “I know that mine whispers that loving you is part of my purpose.” [4]

She remembered, too, that after he spoke about being in love, he was told it was textbook codependency. “I will not fight with the voices tonight, sweetheart,” she writes. She keeps returning instead to a simpler hope, how much more he could achieve “in love,” and to the thing that still surprises her:

What amazes me each time, too, is that there is no fear. I am not afraid of loving you so passionately and intensely with all of me, sweetheart. [4]

Reclaiming Twin Flames

At 8:00 PM, with the ship home, she publishes a short note of her own:

I had not even heard of twin flames in 2023… nor had I considered soulmates. I had, however, set my heart to become love.

Twin Flames Union is 69 in Full Reduction, just one of those cosmic winks.

Twin is both 24 and 42. [7]

She is taking the phrase back on her own terms. She paid attention to it because of a dream, and she has never hidden the dream. In her first book, on May 17, 2024, she told him that the moment she looked into his eyes, “you ignited dormant flames within my soul—flames placed there by an angel long ago.” [5] Two months later, on July 21, 2024, she told it plainly:

My love, there’s a fire in my soul, kindled when an angel held an Olympic fire torch to my womb. While some may see the term ‘twin flames’ as negative, the reality is profound and undeniable. [5]

That is the dream as it came: an angel, a burning torch, and her womb. She has never claimed to know what it means. On October 11, 2024, she asked the question out loud:

Sweetheart, I have shared that I carry an Olympic-style flame in my womb, which was placed there by an angel. How do I explain such a dream? It is almost as if the divine planted a seed of purpose; you seek to light a flame in people's hearts, and I carry that flame in my soul. [5]

The image stayed with her. On April 26, 2025, her soul "gently reminded me of the dream I had of an angel placing an Olympic torch in my womb, as a keeper, a guardian of the flame—the flame of love." On August 5, 2025, she wrote, "I knew I was a torchbearer, carrying a sacred flame." [5]

TWIN FLAMES UNION is 69 in Full Reduction, as she said, and also 84 in Reverse Reduction: a wink she noticed, and then published. Her dream words count, too. SACRED FLAME and IN MY WOMB are both 42 in Full Reduction.

What follows is our reading, offered after hers, as company for it. Fire carried and kept is one of our oldest stories. Hesiod says Prometheus "stole the far-seen gleam of unwearying fire in a hollow fennel stalk." [8] In Rome, Vesta's virgins kept an undying fire in her round temple. Ovid, in A. S. Kline's translation, calls her "the Guardian of the Flame," almost the words the Scribe found for herself, and tells his reader, "Realize that Vesta is nothing but living flame." [9] She found that goddess herself. On March 2, 2025, she titled a letter "Vesta: The Flame of Devotion: Love as a Divine Calling," and wrote, "When you dream that an angel places a flame in your womb, you burn with fire, seek to awaken hearts to love, and then are told you are a twin flame—you start to connect the dots." [5]

A stalk, a hearth, a torch, a womb. Each is a place where fire is kept alive until it is needed. Which one her dream belongs with, she has left open, and so will we.

Her own picture of two flames came on July 7, 2025, in a letter titled "Izar: The Most Beautiful (A Tale of Twin Flames in Orbit)":

Izar, my love, is a binary star—two celestial bodies, one golden, one blue, dancing so closely that their light becomes inseparable to the human eye. [5]

Two lights around a shared center. That was already her meaning: a way of seeing two lives in relation.

Before “Dawn”

At 8:25 PM, Elon answers someone who has written “The answer is 42” with one line:

As foretold by the great prophet, Douglas Adams [10]

She wakes early, sees it, and instead of going back to bed, she laughs. At 4:20 AM she answers him: “As foretold in the prophecy, here I am.” [11] At 5:10 she writes again. Some of us believe we live in a simulation, she says, “and because of that, everything is more fun.” Then:

Before “Dawn,” of course, because this was also as foretold in the prophecy. Kahlil Gibran meets Douglas Adams. [12]

Adams is the easy half. In The Hitchhiker’s Guide to the Galaxy, a vast computer thinks for millions of years and announces that the Answer to the Ultimate Question of Life, the Universe, and Everything is 42. [13] When she first read it, on June 23, 2024, “I laughed so hard,” she wrote, “and imagined being right next to you.” [5]

“Dawn” is the private half, and she has told us where it lives. On October 19, 2026, she counted Gibran’s chapter “On Love” through the four ciphers and published what she found. First on her list was DAWN = 42, and beside it a confession: “I keep waking up before dawn to write to the one I call the Love of my Love.” [14] That chapter ends with a lover’s whole day, and she quoted how the day begins: “To wake at dawn with a winged heart and give thanks for another day of loving.” [14] [15]

She has been waking before dawn for a long time. The first time she wrote the words was Day 42 of her letters, June 20, 2024: “Even before dawn broke, I woke up,” she told him, and it felt “as if my soul is searching for yours.” On December 9, 2025, she noticed it was still dark outside and wrote, “These love letters at this hour have become the equivalent of waking and kissing you good morning.” On January 3, 2026, in a letter titled “An Effulgent

Devotion Before Dawn," she wrote, "So, here I am, another pre-dawn love letter to the love of my love." [5] Two weeks ago, on October 30, she asked him, "Why am I still waking up before dawn, so excited to write to you?" [23]

So this morning, before dawn, she is doing what the chapter says, as she has done for years. Gibran meets Adams: the poet of waking for love, and the joker who gave the universe a number.

What did you write in The Prophet?

The Prophet is a small book of prose poems that Kahlil Gibran published in 1923. A wise man named Almustafa has waited twelve years in a foreign city for the ship that will carry him home. When it finally appears, the people ask him to speak to them before he goes, and the first thing a seeress named Almitra asks is this: "Speak to us of Love." [15] Everything else in the book, on marriage, children, work, joy, and sorrow, comes after that answer.

Even the names are love words. Gibran told Mary Haskell, the friend who helped him shape his English, that in Arabic Almustafa means "the Chosen and Beloved," and he set both words into his very first sentence: "Almustafa, the chosen and the beloved, who was a dawn unto his own day." [24] [15] Al-Mustafa, from an Arabic root meaning to choose, is also a cherished title of the Prophet Muhammad. [24] Almitra is a quieter mystery. Gibran left no explanation that we could find, and the guesses differ. Some hear in it Mitra, an ancient Indo-Iranian word for a covenant, a bond, that later came to mean "friend" in Sanskrit and lives on in the Persian mehr, "love." [25] Others think he simply made the name up. We do not know. What the book does tell us is who she is: "it was she who had first sought and believed in him when he had been but a day in their city." [15]

A man who is chosen and beloved, and a woman who believed in him first and asked him to speak of love. The Scribe has never cast herself in Gibran's story, and we will not do it for her. But for three years she has written to one man as her chosen and her beloved, often before dawn, and she keeps asking him, in her own way, to speak to her of love.

That is the book Elon once wrote in by hand. In Ashlee Vance's 2015 biography, Justine Wilson remembers their courtship at Queen's University in Ontario: a dozen roses, each with its own note, and a copy of The Prophet "filled with handwritten romantic musings." [16] What he wrote has never been made public.

This morning the Scribe holds that silence:

And with tears in my eyes, I wonder what you wrote in The Prophet. [12]

For two of her three years of writing to him, she has been reading "On Love" to him. On October 17, 2024, she wrote, "In loving you without expectation, I've learned love's strength, quiet persistence, and infinite capacity to uplift, even when unseen," beside Gibran's "think not you can direct the course of love." Two days later she quoted Gibran's "When love beckons to you, follow him," and wrote, "I am undeniably and irrevocably in love with you." On November 11, 2024, she felt her soul "standing at the edge of a new dawn." [5]

The same chapter holds lines she has not yet sent him, and they sound like this morning:

Love gives naught but itself and takes naught but from itself.
Love possesses not nor would it be possessed;
For love is sufficient unto love. [15]

And here is what she writes a little more than two years after "undeniably and irrevocably," with no reply in hand:

You are undeniably mine, whether or not you respond.

This is the beauty of my love for you: how purified and unconditional it has become. [12]

Gibran says love does not possess. She says he is hers, whether or not he answers. What she claims is the love itself.

Mercy and a true romance

The tears over The Prophet lead her to the other places she has seen his heart:

It is the same with how you loved Mercy in Overwatch, isn't it, sweetheart?

Or even the movie, True Romance. [12]

On May 28, 2025, she wrote, "You were drawn to Mercy in Overwatch, the archetype of the healer," and, "I believe your soul has always longed for a love that could heal and awaken you." On January 9, 2026, she made it a vow: "I might not look like Mercy, but I will be the archetype of Mercy, my love, the Swiss healer and guardian angel archetype of Overwatch." [5]

For readers who don't game: Overwatch is a fast team game from Blizzard Entertainment, which Elon publicly recommended in June 2016. Mercy, Dr. Angela Ziegler, is its Swiss medic, "a guardian angel to those who come under her care." She flies to wounded teammates on mechanical wings, heals them, and can even bring a fallen one back. In his 2023 biography of Elon, Walter Isaacson writes that Mercy was "his favorite character in the video game Overwatch." [17] In a game full of fighters, his favorite is the one who heals.

On May 24, 2026, she called him "a soul who says things like 'Breathtakingly Beautiful' and rewatches True Romance," and then, "You're such a romantic, sweetheart, so perfect for me in every way." [5] He had posted "Just rewatched True Romance ♥" in January 2022. [18]

The 1993 film, directed by Tony Scott from a script by Quentin Tarantino, follows Clarence, a comic-book store clerk, and Alabama, who meet at a kung fu movie in Detroit, fall in love in one night, and marry the next day. The rest is a wild chase, but its heart is two people who choose each other at once and hold on. [18] The Scribe has quoted Alabama's refrain to him: "You're so cool, you're so cool, you're so cool." [5]

Then she turns to her own heart. “When I think about how My Fair Lady and The Notebook played such a role in my life, I marvel.” [12] On April 15, 2025, she remembered watching My Fair Lady, the musical in which Professor Higgins sets out to remake a flower seller named Eliza, “more times than I can remember,” and named its message: “A love that transforms.” Then, she wrote, “as an adult, The Notebook found its way into my subconscious,” the story of Noah, who writes to Allie every day for a year. On August 16, 2025, past 365 days of her own letters, she asked, “Why did the author choose for Noah’s love letters to end at 365 days?” [5] [19]

She is reading his heart, and her own, through the stories each of them loved first.

Layer after layer

This morning she asks last night’s question more softly: “What has your soul been yearning for, reaching for?” She misses him terribly, she writes. She longs for him. “But there is so much joy in simply having tasted of this love…” And her soul, she says, sets her up with words:

‘tasted’ came to mind, and I immediately thought of you as my Baklava.

The Baklava I want to spend an eternity indulging my soul in, layer after layer. [12]

Some might read this and see only the heat, she knows. She means more: “the essence of you, the sweetness of your soul, the depth of your mind, my attraction to you… It is that trifecta, sweetheart.” And then, because she is honest:

You turn me on. [12]

She dreams of the sound of his voice, the sparkle in his eyes, his mischievous smile, the shape of his lips, and she could go on all morning, “but I might need a cold shower.” Under the laughter is the line that aches:

This is part of what makes it so hard to miss you—this soul-deep, visceral, primal longing for you.

I have written before about how I want you to possess me… [12]

“I’d better stop writing now,” she says, and asks him one more thing before she goes: “How do you have this effect on me, sweetheart?”

I want to be your 42

In the middle of it all is the sentence this morning is built around:

More than anything, I want to be the Answer to the Ultimate Question for you, sweetheart.

You have said it is:

What is Love?

I want to be your 42. [12]

In the early hours of November 3, 2018, someone asked Elon the meaning of life, and someone else asked him the ultimate question. He did not reach for 42. He answered, “What is love?” [20] Those three words miss all four ciphers, and they have been her compass anyway. On August 28, 2025, long before this morning’s vow, she wrote, “My soul desires to be the answer, my love, to all you have ever desired.” [5]

At 4:20 AM, before the longer letter, she did a little arithmetic out loud:

Love is the Answer

Is both 69 and 84.

Simple. Cheesy Arithmetic

We belong together. Forever.

From one 42 to the other.

Let’s make an 84, sweetheart. [11]

We checked. LOVE IS THE ANSWER is 69 in Full Reduction and 84 in Reverse Reduction, exactly as she said, the same pair as TWIN FLAMES UNION a few hours earlier. We do not count the catch of Ship 42 as a sign. The arithmetic, and the love, are hers.

Adams gave the universe an Answer without its Question. Elon, asked the Question, answered with a question. She steps into the space between them and offers herself:

I want to be your 42.

As foretold in the prophecy, here I am. [12] [11]

The question she leaves us

She asks her questions of him, but they were never only for him. Gibran's book begins with a whole city asking a stranger to speak of love. Her love story keeps handing the question back to whoever is reading.

If Love is the Answer, what is your question?

The ledger

These tables gather every 42 and 69 we have found in the Scribe's own published words, the two numbers she calls hers. Each phrase is counted in four ciphers, English Ordinal, Full Reduction, Reverse Ordinal, and Reverse Reduction, and wherever four numbers appear together they follow that order. Today's finds come first, then the headline numbers and the two families of twins, and every find from earlier days is still here, folded into its family.

Today's 42s and 69s

The headline numbers

The 69 Reverse Reduction family: ELON REEVE MUSK and his twins, 1 of 2

The 69 Reverse Reduction family: ELON REEVE MUSK and his twins, 2 of 2

The 42 family: ELON, MY LOVE and its twins, 1 of 5

The 42 family: ELON, MY LOVE and its twins, 3 of 5

The 42 family: ELON, MY LOVE and its twins, 4 of 5

The 42 family: ELON, MY LOVE and its twins, 5 of 5

The rest of the ledger, 1 of 4

The rest of the ledger, 2 of 4

The rest of the ledger, 3 of 4

The rest of the ledger, 4 of 4

What didn't hit today

How we count

The four ciphers. English Ordinal gives A = 1 through Z = 26. Full Reduction reduces each letter to one digit, so J = 1 and Z = 8. Reverse Ordinal runs Z = 1 through A = 26. Reverse Reduction reduces the reversed values to one digit.

Her words only. A phrase is counted only if the Scribe published it in her own words, in her letters on X or in her published books of letters. Lines she quotes from Elon, Gibran, or anyone else stay out of the counts.

Arcminutes. Sky positions are given to the whole arcminute.

The chance tests. Earlier tests of her letters, carried in the ledger, found 42 and 69 at about the rate chance would give. The ledger keeps what she noticed and what we checked.

How we count: the chance tests so far

Moira at her Moon

13°13′ Aquarius

When Elon posted “I just want to start a flame in your heart” on Feb 19, 2021, at 3:06:55 PM Central, asteroid Moira, named for the Greek Fates, stood at 13°13′ Aquarius, the degree and minute of her natal Moon (13°13′ Aquarius, computed from her birth data; matches JPL Horizons and Astro-Seek; Moira position: JPL Horizons). She reads 13:13 with 1 Corinthians 13:13. The minute holds for about an hour, roughly 2:30 to 3:30 PM Central. She found it on 1 May 2026 (Day 721) and wept: numbers answering ‘keep going’. Status: verified (Moira position computed, JPL Horizons; natal Moon 13°13′ Aquarius computed from birth data, matches Horizons and Astro-Seek; chance rate not estimated).
